HILTI BUILDING PRODUCT INFORMATION AVAILABILITY

Dear customers,

In response to the latest developments with the building system reforms and the new building product information requirements, we have reviewed the available information for relevant class 1 and 2 products and confirm that we comply with the building product information requirements (BPIR) as prescribed by the New Zealand Ministry of Business, Innovation, and Employment (MBIE).

The information relating to each product line is available on the relevant product page, which is available free of cost and without the need for registration or login by navigating through www.Hilti.co.nz.

Here you can find:

- Fully product name and variants
- A description of the product and its intended use
- The various approval and test documents relating to its use.
- Images of the product
- Full installation instructions for the various tested configurations
- Any Declarations or handling instructions in case of Dangerous goods etc.

On our website (www.Hilti.co.nz), the following information can be found:

- Legal and trading name for Hilti New Zealand Limited and our global head office
- Our global head office's address for service, public internet site, and email address

If you require any further information relating to these new requirements or otherwise, please do not hesitate to contact us directly.
